Overview

All CIPP® (CIPP/US®, CIPP/C®, CIPP/E®, CIPP/A), CIPM™ and CIPT™ holders must meet two minimum requirements over the two-year term of their certification in order to maintain credentialed status: (1) pay a certification maintenance fee for their term (for members this fee is included in their membership benefits) and (2) Submit evidence of 20 hours of continuing privacy education (CPE) for each certification they hold.

The intent of this policy is to ensure our certified individuals are remaining up to date with the latest developments in their particular designation or sector, while also allowing them the freedom to pursue privacy and/or security education that is most relevant to their interests and job requirements. There are a few features of the policy that merit particular attention:

- Individuals with more than one IAPP certification are able and encouraged to apply CPE credits to as many of their IAPP credentials as they see fit, as long as they believe the continuing education is relevant to those credentials. We understand that there can be substantial crossovers in privacy that break through the boundaries we place around sectors and jurisdictions. We believe it will be rare that people with multiple credentials will need to earn 20 unique credits for each designation.
- The number of available CPEs for certain activities are capped to encourage certified individuals to pursue a variety of educational opportunities.
- CPE Central on the IAPP website provides certification holders with numerous pre-tagged CPE opportunities.
- The IAPP is not the only place to pursue continuing education. Events, seminars, training, and web conferences hosted by other professional organizations that inhabit the privacy, InfoSec, Data governance, and healthcare spaces are often CPE eligible.
This CPE policy was developed by the IAPP in conjunction with its advisory boards. The various requirements of the policy have been reviewed and approved by the Certification Advisory Board of the IAPP. The IAPP and the certification advisory boards established the CPE program and policy and are solely responsible for reviewing, approving and issuing CPE credits. For any questions or needs relating to continuing privacy education, please contact the IAPP directly (see CPE Contact Information below).
Continuing Privacy Education

Definition

A continuing privacy education (CPE) credit is defined as a (usually) one-hour unit earned from participating in or attending any program, event, or forum, reading or writing any published written material, creating and administering a presentation, course of instruction, or other activity that relates to privacy and/or security.

Certification Term

The IAPP credential (CIPP/US, CIPP/C, CIPP/E, CIPP/A, CIPM or CIPT) is considered “active” beginning on the date that the individual credential holder has successfully completed the certification examination for that credential and has paid a certification maintenance fee or is an active member.

The credential term is two years from the first day of the month following the date the credential was earned and each anniversary thereof. A person with multiple credentials will adhere to the anniversary of his or her first credential, this is referred to as Term Alignment. If an additional certification is attained past year 1 of his or her existing term, CPEs will not be required for the new certification until the individual’s next term starts (in alignment with his or her first certification.) He or she will then be required to complete the 20 additional credits. If the additional certification is attained during year 1 of the existing term, the full 20 CPE’s will be required.

Certification Maintenance

To maintain the credential(s) in good standing, the certification holder must meet the minimum requirement of CPEs for each term as well as pay the certification maintenance fee of $250 (this fee is included in membership benefits). If the credential holder fails in either of these obligations, the credential will be considered suspended and the individual may no longer represent the CIPP/US, CIPP/C, CIPP/E, CIPP/A, CIPM or CIPT designation in person or on business cards in professional correspondence or other communications; furthermore, the IAPP Membership Directory will not represent the member as an IAPP credential holder.

A certified individual will receive at least three email reminders to submit their required CPEs—90, 30, and 7 days before their term is set to expire.

CPE Submission
It is the certificant’s responsibility to ensure that CPEs earned from IAPP and non-IAPP programming and events have been applied correctly to their accounts.

Certified individuals must use the CPE Submission Form to self-report all non-IAPP activities within 90 days of the event, otherwise the CPEs will not be accepted.

CPE Central

The IAPP has created a searchable database for all IAPP CPE-eligible activities. Certificants can search by certification designation, activity type, and CPE amount in order to find exactly what they need. CPEs are automatically added to the certificant’s relevant certifications for all IAPP events.

CPE Providers

Each year, the IAPP designates many organizations as official CPE providers to give IAPP-certified individuals opportunities to earn CPE credits in addition to the ones the IAPP provides. All IAPP-approved CPE providers and events can be found on the Approved CPE Provider and Industry Events pages on the IAPP website with detailed information about CPE availability. This professional benefit is available to all IAPP-certified individuals, members and non-members alike. We provide each approved organization with a CPE Provider logo; if you are unsure whether a course is IAPP approved, please contact the Certification department.

Suspension and Reinstatement

An individual’s certification can be suspended due to a lack of membership or enrollment in the Certification Maintenance Fee (CMF), or for lack of their required CPE’s. NOTE: The CMF is strictly a credential activation product and therefore runs concurrently with the Certificate term. Membership is not a certification-only product and as a result may have a unique start and end date separate from the certification term. IAPP membership benefits includes the CMF fee.

Suspension for Lack of CPE’s:

If, at the end of a certification term, the certificant has not completed and submitted the required amount of CPEs, his or her new term will begin in suspended status. When an individual’s certification is suspended for lack of CPEs, he or she cannot submit CPEs earned in the prior term to cover the deficiency from that term; instead, he or she must earn additional CPEs during the new term to cover the gap from the prior term. Once the individual earns the CPEs owed from the prior term, the suspension will be lifted. Once the certification is returned to active status, the individual must then satisfy the regular CPE requirements for their credential(s) for the current term. For example, someone with a CIPP/US whose term expires while she still owes 8 CPEs will then need to earn 28 during the new term. Once she submits 8 CPEs, her certification will return to active status and she will be required to earn the 20 CPEs for the current term.

Suspension for Lack of Membership:

If a certificant’s membership lapses during his or her certification term, the certificant’s certification(s) will be suspended immediately. The certification(s) will be reinstated once payment of all missing fees has been processed.

Suspension for Lack of CMF:

If, at the end of a certification term, the certificant has not paid the CMF for the next term, his or her next term will begin in suspended status. The certification will become active once the individual pays the CMF.

An individual’s certification will be revoked if any of the following three events occur:

1. If, during an individual’s certification term, he or she has been suspended for failure to pay the certification maintenance fee, and at the end of the suspended certification term the fee has not been paid, the credential will be revoked.

2. If, during an individual’s certification term, he or she has been suspended for failure to pay renewal membership fees, and at the end of their current certification term the fees have not been paid, the credential will be revoked.

3. If, at the end of a certification term, an individual is suspended for failure to submit the required CPEs and does not remedy the CPE shortage by the end of his or her next term, the credential will be revoked.

Certificants with revoked credentials will be required to retake and pass the certification designation(s) exams and if necessary, pay the certification maintenance fee (non-members) or restore active IAPP membership status.

Multiple Credentials
People with two or more credentials are required to earn 20 CPE credits for each credential per two-year term.

Term Alignment

All certifications will eventually align to the start and end dates of the credential holder’s first earned certification. When an additional certification is earned, the new certification will automatically adopt the end date of the original certification.

If an additional certification is attained past year 1 of his or her existing term, CPEs will not be required for the new certification until the individual’s next term starts (in alignment with his or her first certification.) He or she will then be required to complete the 20 additional credits. If the additional certification is attained during year 1 of the existing term, the full 20 CPE’s will be required.

When the end date of the certifications arrives, and all requirements have been met, all certifications will run concurrently for the same two-year term.

Surplus CPE Credits

In the event that an individual exceeds the required CPEs in two-year period, that individual may carry over a maximum of 10 credits per certification as long as they were earned in the 6 months prior to the end of the recertification period.

Documentation

Certified individuals must use the CPE Submission Form to self-report all non-IAPP activities but are not required to submit supporting documentation at this time; however, you must retain documentation in your own records in the event you are randomly selected for a CPE audit. Documentation might include an email confirmation from an event or a receipt from a webinar. You should retain these records each year for three months after your anniversary date.

Certified individuals must self-report all non-IAPP activities within 90 days of the event, otherwise the CPEs will not be accepted.

Audit

The IAPP will conduct periodic random audits of CPE accounts and request documentation for events and activities not automatically credited to a certificant’s account (those submitted by the certificant). Certificants randomly selected for an audit will be notified by e-mail. Audits may result in any of the following findings:
1. Acceptable documentation and verification of CPE credit hours submitted.
2. Unacceptable documentation and request for further documentation. Such further documentation must be received by the IAPP with 30 days of the request.
3. CPE credit hours will be denied for either (a) unacceptable documentation or (b) failure to respond within the specified period, and the credit hours will be subtracted from the certificant’s CPE account.

If, in the course of an audit or by any other means, the IAPP determines that a certificant has submitted CPE credit hours for activities in which he or she did not participate, the certificant’s CIPP, CIPM or CIPT credential(s) will be immediately and permanently revoked.
