Eight robust modules employ interactive scenarios, video presentations from subject matter experts and assessments for an engaging learning environment that examines critical questions to consider when operationalizing the CCPA. The training, part of three comprehensive, customized CCPA Ready bundles (iapp.org/ccpa), is continually updated to keep you current on the latest developments, enforcement actions and guidance from California’s attorney general. Designed to prompt internal discussion and action, the training does not serve as legal guidance. For that, we encourage seeking legal counsel.

MODULES

Module 1: Course introduction
Reviews course themes plus functionality and instructions for navigating the content.

Module 2: CCPA scope: Am I affected and what should I do?
Summarizes the scope of the law including key concepts, such as definition of a business and a sale, options for responding and real-world questions.

Module 3: What rights does the CCPA grant consumers?
Describes consumers’ rights under the CCPA, including the right to access and deletion, right to opt out of sale and the right to non-discrimination.

Module 4: Meeting compliance requirements
Highlights operational concerns and approaches with an emphasis on assessing vendor relationships, meeting obligations for transparency and notice, and responding to consumer access requests.

Module 5: Penalties and enforcement
Discusses fines, penalties, legal sanctions and remedies of the CCPA, as well as the California attorney general’s posture and enforcement powers.

Module 6: GDPR compliance and the CCPA
Compares the CCPA and the General Data Protection Regulation at a high level, including how to leverage GDPR compliance efforts in preparing for the CCPA.

Module 7: What we’re watching
Tracks amendments, attorney general guidance, and the law’s potential impact on various industries. Purchasers will receive continual updates outlining the very latest changes and expert interpretations.

Module 8: CCPA and the U.S. privacy landscape
Summarizes federal and state consumer privacy laws in the year preceding CCPA implementation and highlights benefits of a leadership-supported, enterprise-wide privacy strategy.

NOTE: Eligible recipients receive 10 continuing privacy education credits.
