user data in relation to the access that was granted by Facebook to third party applications and the subsequent abuse of this data for electoral campaigning efforts and other personal data breaches of personal data held and gathered by major social media companies that came to light afterwards; (based on suggestion EPP/S&D/Greens)

B. whereas these personal data breaches impacted citizens across the globe, including European citizens and non-European citizens residing on European territory, whereas various national parliaments conducted hearings, inquiries and published findings on the matter; (based on suggestion EPP/ S&D/ALDE/ECR/Greens/GUE)

C. whereas these personal data breaches occurred before the application of the new General Data Protection Regulation and for a long time; whereas the companies concerned were however in breach of EU data protection law applicable at that time, particularly Directive 95/46/EC and Directive 2002/58/EC; (based on suggestion S&D/ALDE /Greens/GUE)

D. whereas the data processing by Cambridge Analytica was allegedly carried out for research purposes; (based on suggestion S&D/ALDE)

E. whereas the initial reaction by the companies concerned did not meet the expected standards and did not enable a full and independent investigation and audit by the authorities concerned both on national as European level; (based on suggestion S&D/ALDE /Greens/GUE)

F. whereas the European Parliament held a first exchange of views with the CEO and founder of Facebook, Mark Zuckerberg on 12 April 2018 and this meeting resulted in the request by the Conference of Presidents for the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs, in association with the Committees on Constitutional Affairs, Legal Affairs and Industry, Research and Energy, to hold in-depth follow-up hearings;

G. whereas three hearings on the impact of the Facebook / Cambridge Analytica case on issues related to data protection, electoral processes, fake news and the market position of social media were held on 4 June, 25 June and 2 July 2018 with the participation of the European Commissioners concerned, the Executive Director of the European Union Agency for Network and Information Security, the European Data Protection Supervisor, the Chair of the European Data Protection Board, the UK Information Commissioner’s Office, the Chief Executive of the UK Electoral Commission, citizens concerned and Facebook;

H. whereas Facebook refused to delegate the staff members at the appropriate technical level and having the necessary technical expertise and knowledge requested by the Committee Chairs concerned and sent public policy team members to all three hearings instead; whereas information provided by Facebook representatives during the hearings lacked precision on the concrete and specific measures taken to ensure full compliance with EU data protection law and was rather of general nature; (based on suggestion S&D/GUE/ALDE)

I. whereas in its Opinion 3/2018 the EDPS raises several concerns on online manipulation and personal data; while the EDPS also argues that competition law has a crucial role in ensuring the accountability of dominant players in the market and protecting democracy against excessive market power; whereas the interests of individuals should be better reflected in assessing the potential abuse of dominance or the mergers of companies, which may have accumulated significant informational power; (based on suggestion S&D/Greens)
J. whereas in its Opinion of 3 October 2017 the Article 29 Working Party stated that profiling and automated decision-making can pose significant risks for individuals’ rights and freedoms which require appropriate safeguards;

K. whereas the Chair of the European Data Protection Board highlighted that the Facebook / Cambridge Analytica case occurred before the entering into force of the GDPR, and thus the EDPB is not the leading authority in this case but rather the UK Information Commissioner’s Office;

L. whereas Facebook accepted and agreed to a contract with an app developer that openly announced they reserved the right to disclose personal data to third parties and such practice was already illegal under the old data protection law; (based on suggestion S&D/ALDE/GUE)

M. whereas negotiations are currently ongoing on the E-Privacy Regulation; (based on suggestion S&D/ALDE/GUE)

N. whereas the EDPB has already received over 30 cross-border cases which it vowed to investigate very carefully according to the rules of GDPR; whereas it coordinates the actions of national data protection authorities in order to ensure a common approach of enforcement of EU data protection law; (based on suggestion EPP/S&D/Greens)

O. whereas the US Federal Trade Commission is currently investigating whether Facebook failed to honor its privacy promises, including to comply with Privacy Shield, or if it engaged in unfair acts that cause substantial injury to consumers in violation of the FTC Act and the previous settlement between the FTC and Facebook reached in 2011; (based on suggestion EPP)

P. whereas four consumer organisations of Belgium, Italy, Spain and Portugal have launched a collective redress action against Facebook, claiming economic compensation for affected Facebook users in their respective countries;

Q. whereas the European Consumer Organisation (BEUC) stated in its testimonial presented on 25 June 2018 that it is necessary to ensure platform accountability for third-party access to personal data; whereas the European Consumer Organisation also argues in the same testimonial that companies should do more to ensure solid accountability structures for partner access to personal data and the further exploitation of these data;

R. whereas the investigation by the Information Commissioner’s Office of the United Kingdom surrounds the link between Cambridge Analytica, its parent company SCL Elections Limited and Aggregate IQ and involves allegations that personal data, obtained from Facebook, may have been misused by both sides in the UK referendum on membership of the EU and used to target voters during the 2016 American Presidential election process; whereas the investigation by the Information Commissioner’s Office of the United Kingdom was mainly conducted under the Data Protection Act 1998 and under the Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations (PECR) 2003, whilst also projecting forward to the General Data Protection Regulation where appropriate; (based on suggestion Greens) [ECR opposed to reference to Brexit]

S. whereas the Information Commissioner’s Office of the United Kingdom has issued Facebook Draft Motion for a Resolution text based upon outcome of hearings on the Facebook / Cambridge Analytica Case and input received from political groups.

with a Notice of Intent to issue a monetary penalty in the sum £500,000 for lack of transparency and security issues relating to the harvesting of data constituting breaches of the first and seventh data protection principles under the Data Protection Act 1998; \(\text{(based on suggestion EPP/S&D/Greens)}\)

T. whereas the Information Commissioner’s Office of the United Kingdom has already issued 23 Information Notices to 17 different organisations and individuals, including Facebook on 23 February 2018, to request provision of information from the organisations in a structured way; while Facebook confirmed on 18 May 2018 that Aggregate IQ created and, in some cases, placed advertisements on behalf of the DUP Vote to Leave campaign, Vote Leave, BeLeave and Veterans for Britain; \(\text{(based on suggestion Greens)}\) \(\text{[ECR opposed to reference to Brexit]}\)

U. whereas the Information Commissioner’s Office of the United Kingdom has expressed its concerns as regards the terms of the information available to users about the sources of the data, the availability and transparency of the controls offered to users; while the Information Commissioner’s Office of the United Kingdom also stated that the overall privacy information and controls being made available by Facebook did not effectively inform the users about the likely uses of their personal information; whereas the Information Commissioner’s Office of the United Kingdom has raised concerns in which data was accessed from the Facebook platform and used for purposes it was not intended for or that data subjects would not have reasonably expected; \(\text{(based on suggestion EPP/S&D/Greens)}\)

V. whereas figures from the Electoral Commission of the UK have shown that the political parties in the United Kingdom spent £3.2 million on direct Facebook advertising during the 2017 general election;

W. whereas algorithmic accountability and transparency is essential to ensure the proper information and clear understanding of individuals about the processing of their personal data; whereas it should mean implementing technical and operational measures that ensure transparency, the non-discrimination of automated decision-making and the calculating of probabilities of individual behaviour; whereas transparency should give individuals meaningful information about the logic involved, the significance and the envisaged consequences; whereas this should include information about the data used for training big data analytics and allow individuals to understand and monitor the decisions affecting them; \(\text{(based on suggestion of GREENS/S&D and GUE)}\)

X. whereas data analysis and algorithms increasingly impact on the information made accessible to citizens; whereas such techniques, if misused, may endanger fundamental rights to information as well as media freedom and pluralism; \(\text{(based on suggestion of GREENS/S&D and GUE)}\)

Y. whereas Facebook promised at the meeting with European Commissioners on 2 July 2018 to cooperate and give access to the data about the alleged voting manipulation to independent academics; \(\text{(based on suggestion of GREENS/ECR)}\)

1. Calls on the data protection authorities at national and European level to undertake a thorough investigation into Facebook and its current practises so that the new consistency mechanism of the General Data Protection Regulation can be relied upon to establish an appropriate and efficient European enforcement response;

2. Expects all online platforms to ensure full compliance with the GDPR in order to make users understand how their personal information is processed in the targeted advertising model, and that effective controls are available, which includes greater transparency in relation to the privacy settings, and the design and prominence of privacy notices;

3. Stresses that the research argument exemption in data protection law can never be used as a loophole for data misuse; (based on suggestion ALDE)

4. Emphasises the need for much greater algorithmic accountability and transparency with regard to data processing and analytics by the private and public sectors and any other actors using data analytics, as an essential tool to guarantee that the individual is appropriately informed about the processing of their personal data; (based on suggestion Greens)

5. Takes the view that the digital age requires electoral laws to be adapted to this new digital reality and suggests Member States introduce an obligatory system of electronic fingerprinting for electronic campaigning and advertising. Any form of political advertising should include easily accessible and understandable information on the publishing organisation and who is legally responsible for spending so that it is clear who sponsored campaigns, similar to existing requirements for printed campaign materials currently in place in various member states; (based on suggestion ALDE)

6. Recommends all online platforms distinguish political uses of their online advertising products from their commercial uses;

7. Believes that profiling for political and electoral purposes, as, pursuant to EU data protection law, it refers to political or philosophical opinions, should be prohibited and is of the opinion that social media platforms should monitor and actively inform authorities if such behaviour occurs;

8. Advocates for social media platforms, political parties and the advertising industry to work closely with the European Commission to develop sector-wide Codes of Conduct that include at least guidelines for ethical campaigning in the digital age and cooperation methods with authorities in charge of verifying electoral processes in Member States;

9. Is of the opinion that if companies fail to agree and implement such a Code of Conduct on ethical campaigning, the European Commission should introduce regulation to make such ethical rules compulsory; (based on suggestion S&D/GUE/EFDD)

10. Recalls Facebook of its promised made on giving access to the data about the alleged voting manipulation to independent academics and expects to be informed before the end of the year 2018 on the main findings and proposed remedies; (based on suggestion of GREENS/ECR)

11. Stresses that social media platforms are not merely passive platforms that only group user generated content but highlights that technological developments have widened the scope and role of such companies by introducing algorithm based advertising and content publication, concludes that this new role should be reflected in the regulatory field;

12. Notes with regret that Facebook was not willing to send staff members with the appropriate technical level of corporate responsibility to the hearings and points out that such an approach is detrimental to the trust European citizens have in social platforms and regrets that Mark
Zuckerberg did not want to attend a public hearing with Members; (based on suggestion S&D/ALDE/Greens/GUE)

13. Takes note of the privacy improvements that Facebook has undertaken after the Facebook/Cambridge Analytica scandal, but recalls that Facebook promised to hold a full internal audit of which the European Parliament has not yet been informed and recommends that Facebook make substantial modifications that would also affect the core business model and the structure of its platform; (based on suggestion EPP/S&D/Greens)

14. Urges Facebook to allow and enable ENISA and the EDPB to carry out a full and independent audit of its platform investigating data protection and security of user personal data and to present the findings of such an audit to the EC, EP and national parliaments; such an exercise should also be carried for other major platforms such as Twitter, Google, LinkedIn and so forth; (based on suggestion S&D/Greens/GUE)

15. Calls on all online platforms providing advertising services to political parties and campaigns to include expertise within the sales support team who can provide political parties and campaigns with specific advice on transparency and accountability in relation to how data is used to target users;

16. Calls on all online platforms to urgently roll out planned transparency features in relation to political advertising, which should include consultation and evaluation of these tools by national authorities in charge of electoral observation and control;

17. Recommends that it should be a requirement that third-party audits be carried out after referendum campaigns are concluded to ensure personal data held by the campaign is deleted, or if it has been shared, that the appropriate consent has been obtained;

18. Calls on Facebook to improve its transparency to enable users to understand how and why a political party or campaign might target them;

19. Takes the view that data protection authorities should have the same, if not more technical expert knowledge as those organisations under scrutiny. Suggests this objective could be reached by introducing funding by a levy on the sector concerned;

20. Recalls that Facebook is a self certified organisation under the EU-US Privacy Shield and as such benefited from the adequacy decision as a legal ground for the transfer and further processing of personal data from the European Union to the United States; (based on suggestion S&D/Greens/ALDE)

21. Recalls its Resolution of 5 July 2018 on the Adequacy of the protection afforded by the EU-US Privacy Shield and, in view of the acknowledgement by Facebook that major privacy breaches occurred; calls on the US authorities responsible for enforcing the Privacy Shield to act upon such revelations without delay in full compliance with the assurances and commitments given to uphold the current Privacy Shield arrangement and, if needed, to remove such companies from the Privacy Shield list; calls also on the competent EU data protection authorities to investigate such revelations and, if appropriate, suspend or prohibit data transfers under the Privacy Shield; considers that the revelations clearly show that the Privacy Shield mechanism does not provide adequate protection of the right to data protection; (based on suggestion by ALDE)

22. Calls on the European Commission to upgrade the competition rules to reflect the digital reality and to look into the business model of social media platforms and their possible monopoly situation, taking into due account the fact that such a monopoly could be present rather due to the specificity of the brand and the amount of personal data that is held rather than an traditional monopoly situation and to take the necessary measures to remedy this; (based on suggestion ALDE/GUE)

23. Urges the European Parliament, the Commission, the Council and all other European Union institutions, agencies and bodies to immediately close their Facebook accounts as a necessary condition to protect the personal data of every individual contacting them and not to open these accounts as long as Facebook has not adapted its personal data processing activities to fully respect EU data protection law.

24. Urges Council to continue negotiations on the E-Privacy Regulation and to strike an agreement with the European Parliament so as to ensure that the rights of citizens especially regarding the protection of users against targeting are protected; (based on suggestion S&D/ALDE/GUE)

25. Requests the Commission audit the activities of the advertising industry on social media and propose legislation in case the sector and concerned parties cannot find agreement on voluntary Codes of Conduct with dissuasive measures; (based on suggestion S&D/GUE/EFDD)

26. Is of the opinion Eurojust could launch a special investigation into the misuse of the online political space by foreign forces including an investigation on the Dutch referendum on the EU-Ukraine association agreement; the misuse of social media for spreading hatred, anti-EU, anti-migration propaganda by bots; (based on suggestion ALDE)

27. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the governments and parliaments of the Member States and the United States of America and the Council of Europe and the CEO of Facebook.
